Daniel Cross Turner’s essay “Modern Primitives: Mergings in the Poetry of Robert Penn Warren and James Dickey” stands out as a particularly remarkable piece in a collection that provides several admirable scholarly offerings. Robert Penn Warren: Genius Loves Company. Mrs Warren was a company director in the family firm with her husband Ivan. How about the time Warren and Mel, accompanied by their old buddy and fellow trainer Henry Moreno, entered horses in the same stakes race at Golden Gate Fields and hit the wire almost simultaneously. It’s all in family for stutes fathers, sons have made their mark on horse racing. Futterman and managing director Ariel Schuster represented 101 Warren Street in all negotiations. Allen Tate, Robert Penn Warren, Randall Jarrell, and James Dickey, all Vanderbilt graduates, served as Consultants in Poetry to the Library of Congress—the most prestigious public post for an American poet at that time. Tate served from 1943 to 1944, Warren from 1944 to 1945, Jarrell from 1956 to 1958, and Dickey from 1966 to 1968. Robert Penn Warren, also later became the first official Poet Laureate. from 1986 to 1987, when the consultancy in poetry acquired a new name. Fiction writers who have studied at Vanderbilt include Robert Penn Warren, Peter. Peter Taylor. As early as 1914, a group of undergraduates began to meet off campus with two faculty members in the Vanderbilt English Department to discuss creative writing.